

PRESS ANNOUNCEMENT FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Friday 23rd June

Winners of the Awards were announced by Sky News' Gillian Joseph during a presentation ceremony at The Merchant Taylors' Hall. Following a record number of applications, both company and individual nominations were endorsed and reviewed by an independent panel of judges.

Nominees covered the full spectrum of Fintech offerings available today, including solutions for custody, settlement, trading, portfolio management, fund administration and third-party clearing services. The Awards were founded and organised by Goodacre UK over 23 years ago and are based on a constant review of Fintech solutions which are considered fit for purpose.

On being presented with the Award for Best Strategic Partnership for a Client Portal, moneyinfo's Tessa Lee said, "This award recognises our partnership and the successful roll-out of the Kingswood Go app. Together we will continue to innovate to enhance client loyalty, improve efficiency and respond to the aspirations of Kingswood's people and their clients."

FIS CEO, John Beeston said, "Delighted to have attended the Systems in The City Awards 2023, a very enjoyable afternoon in which FIS was independently recognised for Best Outsourcing Provider 2023. I'm also deeply honoured and humbled to have personally been recognised as "CEO of the Year. Special thanks to Stephen Pinner and the Goodacre team."

Ross Fox, Managing Director, Head of UK & Europe at Calastone said, "We are thrilled to be recognised as the 'Best Transfer Automation System' at the 2023 Systems in the City Awards. Through our automated transfer process, we have successfully reduced the time required for asset transfers from weeks to less than a day. This expedited and simplified process empowers investors to select providers more quickly, efficiently, and at a reduced cost."
